Created November 10, 2021

Attention Please! Important Information.

This ebook utilizes Presari -- a search tool integrated into an interactive ebook that searches the Internet for you.

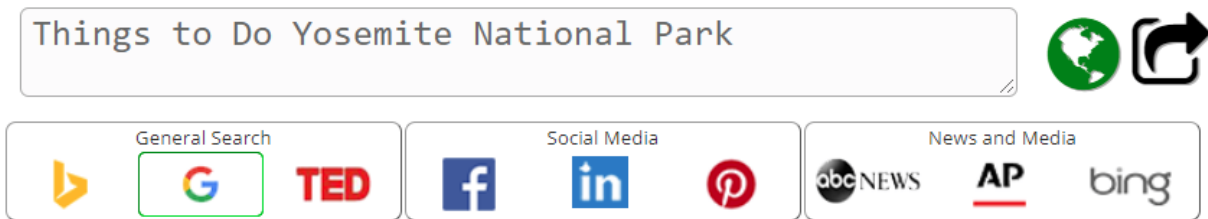

This is not a book you read with pretty pictures and general paragraphs that get stale and go out of date. This is a dynamic interactive online research tool you use in real time to find the best and most current information and answers to important questions.

Presari operates like a TV remote control for search engines. The keywords are ready to use. No typing is needed. Every destination link opens a Presari page just like this one:

Things to Do in Yosemite National Park

Things to Do Yosemite National Park Shared on 11/01/2021

Custom Search in Default Preset

You then click on a search engine icon and voila, your results open for you. You get knowledge, access to people and organizations, and get the latest news.

That's a big part of the miracle of this technology. You get to choose the search engines you wish to use. And more, the results are always current.

Click or touch. That's all you need to do. Get ready. You are about to go on an incredible elearning adventure and experience a new way to get the most out of your technology.

Using Presari to Improve Your Online Research

“The capacity to learn is a gift; The ability to learn is a skill; The willingness to learn is a choice.”

— Brian Herbert

This ebook utilizes Presari - a specialized search tool that lets you choose where you get information from on the Internet.

This is an ebook that searches the Internet for you. It is specially designed to help you get more out of using your technology faster than ever before.

No typing is needed. Just click or touch.

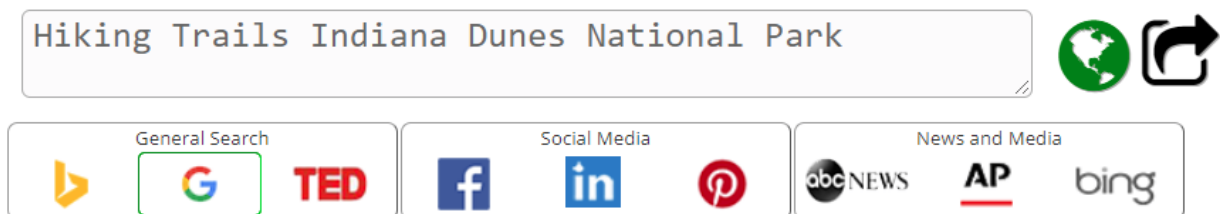

Presari operates like a TV remote control for search engines. You can use it on any Internet connected device.

You click or touch a keyword a like this:

Hiking Trails Indiana Dunes National Park

Hiking Trails Indiana Dunes National Park Shared on 10/30/2021

Custom Search in Default Preset

Each box offers categories of search engine choices:

- General Search - Google and Bing, Ecosia, Baidu and Yandex, and more
- Social Media: Facebook, Instagram, Twitter, LinkedIn and more.

- News and Media: Google news, Bing News, Prime news media and more.

Click or touch a search engine icon and your results open for you. Voila.

Now you can always pick Google or Bing to deliver you information. But look at what else you can do!

You can select other sources of information depending on what you need or want.

Speed Up Your Online Research.

You can go really fast if you want to.

Try this: Hold down the Command Key (on a Mac) or the Control Key (on a PC) while you click or touch one search engine icon after another. Like magic - they will all open. This speeds up your access to whatever you pick with no extra typing. Having choice is nice. And you can zoom.

You can even use Presari in combination with the voice to text feature on your smart phone to avoid having to type in your keywords.

The name Presari comes from the word “impresario” – the person who presents art, science, music – to the public. I define the word Presari to mean “knowledge creates opportunity”.

Presari’s overriding purpose is to help you find the best knowledge, news and people fast.

Knowledge creates opportunity.

Each Presari guide contains carefully organized and lists of keywords focus on the topic you selected.

Remember - no typing is needed. Just click or touch. Then pick the best source to find the best information.

Quick Access to Critical Information

Get online. Turn on your computer, laptop, notebook or your smart phone. You must be connected to the Internet.

Open this ebook. Study the Table of Contents. Swipe or scroll to page down, and click or touch the National Park to go to the right section.

No typing is needed. The topics are organized and arranged for you to make it easy to find more detailed information.

Each section has 12 long phrase keywords that were carefully selected and tested to make sure they deliver great results for the following topics:

- The National Park or Monument website
- Getting There
- Trip Planning
- Things to Do
- Explore the Park
- Restaurants
- Shopping
- Lodging
- Hiking Trails
- Campgrounds
- Weather

Click or touch the keyword of interest and a Presari search page opens up. Click or touch a search engine icon and your results open up.

Get the Most Out of Your Time & Technology

Presari lets you choose from the best sources to satisfy your desire or need for certain types of information.

- Knowledge – use the general search engines
- News – use the news search engines or go right to the media sources
- People – use the social media.

Your choices determine the results you get.

General Search Engines: Google, Bing, Wikipedia, TED, Wikipedia, and many others. The results may be different and some are better than others.

News & Media Search Engines: Get the most recent and current media coverage from Google News and Bing News or select from newspapers, magazines, news services & syndicates, radio shows, TV shows, and news and other websites, blogs, and podcasts.

Social Media Search Engines: Facebook, Twitter, You Tube, LinkedIn, and many more let you see what people are saying in real time.

Use the Tools

Once you are on a website, you can always drill down to find additional information.

You can refine and improve your results by using any of the tools search engines offer. These options include:

Visual Appearance: You can get results the way you prefer to learn. Navigation menus let you choose text, articles, images, videos, and much more.

Time Tools: You can use filter your results to cover a specific time period. This can be the past year, month, past 24 hours, or any time frame you choose. By using the past 24 hours twice in a row, you can get the most recent results in real time.

Location Tools: You may be able to filter results by location.

People Tools: You may be able to sort and filter results to identify groups and organizations.

Using tools can help you find the most valuable information you need.

Here are two important things to remember:

First, recognize that the data available changes constantly. Further, the results you get are always current. That is one of the miracles of the technology you get to use. You can always get the most current and up to date information if you choose to do so.

Second, beauty is in the eye of the beholder. You are the only person who can decide what is right for you. What's right for you may not be right for others. They may prefer their information presented in a way that is different than you.

About the Author

Paul J. Krupin was born in New York City and raised in Franklin Square on Long Island. His grandparents owned a toy store on Steinway Street in Astoria.

He was introduced to the joys of the outdoors as a child. His parents were active members of a local chapter of a family RV camping group that was part of the National Camping and Hiker's Association called the Quackpots, which stood for Long Island Ducks and Potatoes.

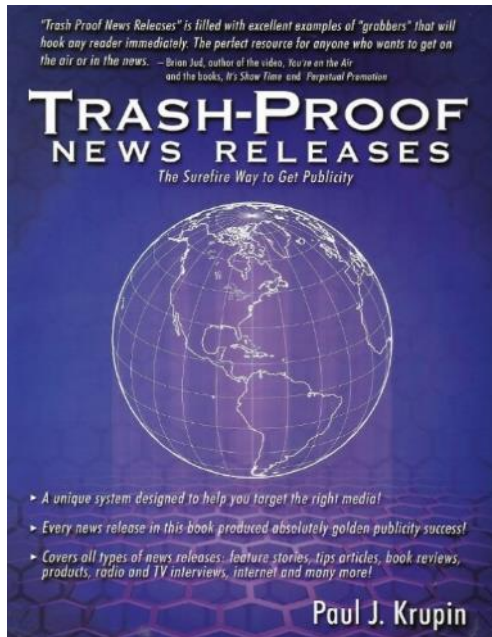

He retired after 28 years of diverse professional government and industry experience in a variety of technology and project management disciplines at complex industrial, nuclear, waste management facilities. He worked as a hydrologist, environmental protection specialist and attorney for the State of Oregon, U.S. Department of Interior, U.S. Department of Agriculture, U.S. Department of Energy, state, county and local agencies, professional organizations, and private industry. He was an emergency medical technician (EMT) and a County Civil Defense Director in Idaho.

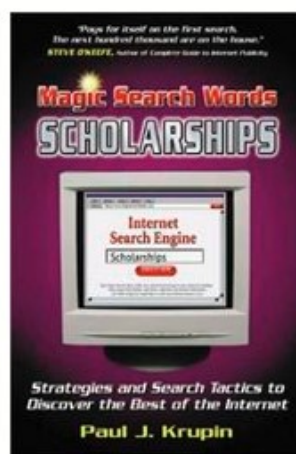

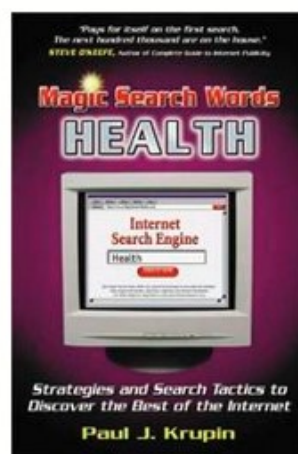

In 1996, he co-created, with Don Short of One World Telecommunications, IMEDIAFAX-The Internet to Media Fax Service a custom programmed online service that allowed people to create their own custom targeted media lists and transmit news releases. Krupin's company, Direct Contact PR, focused on targeted PR using email. His clients included book authors from every genre and creative entrepreneurs of all types. He got to work with top-tier authors like Jack Canfield and Mark Victor Hansen of Chicken Soup for the Soul, and bestselling authors Dan Brown, Dave Ramsey, Andy Andrews, Brian Tracy, Joe Vitale, Zig Ziglar, hundreds of authors and publishing companies, independent films, mobile apps, Internet technology and industry events, hard news journalists to syndicated columnists to electronic newsletters and more.

He captured the best of the publicity techniques he developed and wrote the book Trash Proof News Releases (2000 and 2010) which can be downloaded for free here. This book contains lessons learned and techniques for getting media coverage that are still applicable and helpful today.

As a researcher and a publicist, Krupin like millions of others, had become totally enamored with Google. Between 1996 and 2002, he systematically developed rules for finding the best information online. In 2002 he wrote three books – The Magic Search Word series (Health, Jobs, and Scholarships), which described how to get the best information on the Internet using search engines.

In 2003 he teamed up with Don Short (President of One World Telecommunications) and using the rules in the Magic Search Word books, they created the original Search Word Pro web site, an Internet platform that automated the selection of search queries and improved results.

Presari is an evolution of that technology. Between 2014 and 2016, Krupin focused on updating the process they developed to take advantage of the advances in the speed, storage and innovations in telecommunications technology.

Programming began in earnest in February 2016. Slowly and steadily, over a ten-month period of custom coding and experimentation, the Presari site evolved and took shape. The sites included are hand-selected based on the quality and quantity of the knowledge they access, documented topical expertise, and highly curated content. often created by authors and expert contributors. They also included social media and news, media and podcasts, and much more. They optimized the site for smart phones so that Presari could be used on any portable or digital device with an Internet connection. It took almost a year and a half.

They turned the site on at 10:28 AM west coast time, at the very peak of the total eclipse of the sun on August 23, 2018.

In June 2019, Krupin utilized Presari to create a travel guide for a group trip to Peru to hike the Inca Trail and visit the Amazon Basin. The utility and usefulness of this white paper report triggered his interest in publishing with Presari.

Over Thanksgiving and Christmas 2019, to help some friends interested in traveling the national parks, he developed and refined the design of a series of Travel ebooks that search using Presari.

In early March, he got diverted when his daughter came home from Seattle and caught covid. He and his wife locked down the house and went into full quarantine. He used Presari to research how to keep people as safe as possible using the best information I could find.

When your home becomes a coronavirus hot spot, hunker down by taking these steps
BY PAUL KRUPIN SPECIAL TO THE HERALD

Can masks protect against coronavirus?

Wearing a medical mask can help limit the spread of some respiratory diseases. However, using a mask alone is not guaranteed to stop infections. Their use should be combined with other preventive measures.

The pandemic was forcing everyone to stay at home and work and be really innovative when it came to making the best use of technology. So Krupin asked his programmer to help him develop the feature that Presari clients loved the most. It is called the Shared Search. Basically, it allows you to do a search for someone, and then deliver them a Presari page that allows them to get the information or results they need or want.

Publishing Technology Innovation

You know the power of one good search. It can be magic.

Now imagine a comprehensive list of magic search words all focused on one or more really important topics of importance to decision-making, coupled with the ability to search and get the most current information across dozens of carefully selected purpose driven sources, in real time, from anywhere on your computer, your laptop, or your smart phone. This is what Presari does.

Each Presari digital guide is designed to help you find out everything you need to know about a topic, destination or location you are interested in.

Special thanks to the Quackpots!

None of this would be possible had my parents Murray and Helene Krupin not instilled a love of the outdoors and taken the family camping when I was a child.

In 1965, they joined a camping club called the Quackpots (which stood for Long Island ducks and potatoes), which was a local chapter that was part of the National Camping and Hiking Association (NCHA), which has now become Family Campers and RVers (www.FCRV.org).

This was a fantastic and very active group of people who traveling and camping. They included dozens of families who took to the hills together for weekend escapes from the city and longer vacation trips across the country. You may have seen them! They formed caravans driving down the highway to parks and campgrounds all over the nation. Here are some photos of those memorable days.

They triggered a love of the outdoors and a thirst for knowledge that has carried through to this very day.

I thank and acknowledge everyone who offered their support, interest, advice, enthusiasm, and willingness to help and contribute to me and this project.

Special thanks to the Inter-Mountain Alpine Club (www.imacnw.org) for their many years of enthusiastic leadership and devotion to encouraging people to get involved in hiking, backpacking, snowshoeing and skiing and eastern Washington.

It was a small team of people that formed a group to go and hike the Inca Trail in Peru in June 2018. I used Presari to create a searchable itinerary for this trip and it was so helpful that it inspired the development of the Presari Digital Travel Guides.

Thank you all! You're wonderful!

Creating Presari would not have been possible without my clients and colleagues. This is really a tribute to you. It is your creative efforts, the fruits of your labor, and the needs we still have before us that drove the creation of this learning device. I have learned so much by working with you to identify how to help people more, and it is a great pleasure to share with you something that can benefit so many others.

Special thanks to my pre-publication reviewers and editors: Jennette Green, Frank Kresen, Dr. Ken Mask, Gail Kearns, Sarah Taylor, Bo Rinaldi, L. Special thanks to Laurie Williams and the Tri-City Herald for letting me write the outdoor column these past years. It is so enjoyable to get to write about what you love and share the joys of nature.

Presari evolved over many years. It's amazing to think that this little product helps give people easy access to some of the best and freely available creative work developed by creative people all over the world. But it really does. Sometimes good things really do come in small packages.

To all of you, I stand in admiration and say Bravo! Together may we create and share and help and improve the lives, the minds, bodies, hearts, and souls of people wherever they are found.

To those of you who respond to my posts on the many mailing lists and social media we are on together, thank you. Were it not for your questions, many of the techniques would not have been developed, the answers would have not been researched, and the technology would not have been created. Please keep on asking those questions!

To all you authors, publishers, app developers, inventors, speakers, artists, business people, and other incredibly creative people, thank you for bringing me your creative work and the fruits of your labor and for allowing me the honor to work with you.

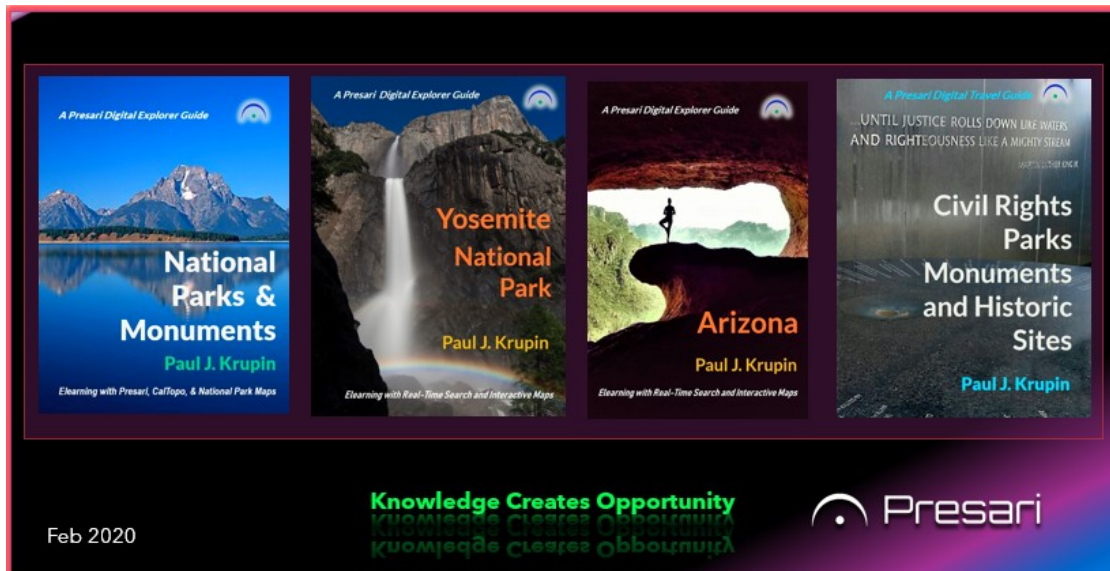

To all, remember that human intelligence is needed to channel and focus artificial intelligence wisely.

It is a privilege to assist you and to know you.
